POICEMAN FEAR FOR ASSAULT

O'Connor Loses 14 Days' Pay for Attack on Prisoner
In Cell

Fairman John J. O'Connor of the Charlestown police station has been adjudged guilty of assaulting Joseph E. Murphy, while the latter was a prisoner in a cell in the Charlestown station.

The sentence ordered by Police Commissioner Curtis was a fine of $25.00 a week total $37.50.

The finding was reached after a trial before a board, consisting of Captains Beardon, Kiley and Murphy had listened to some of the evidence in the case. The victim of the assault was not called to testify against O'Connor.

HOUSTON SEES GOLD COWING

Opposes Loans to Germany as Well as Other European Nations

Washington, March 10.—The United States will make no further loans to European nations.

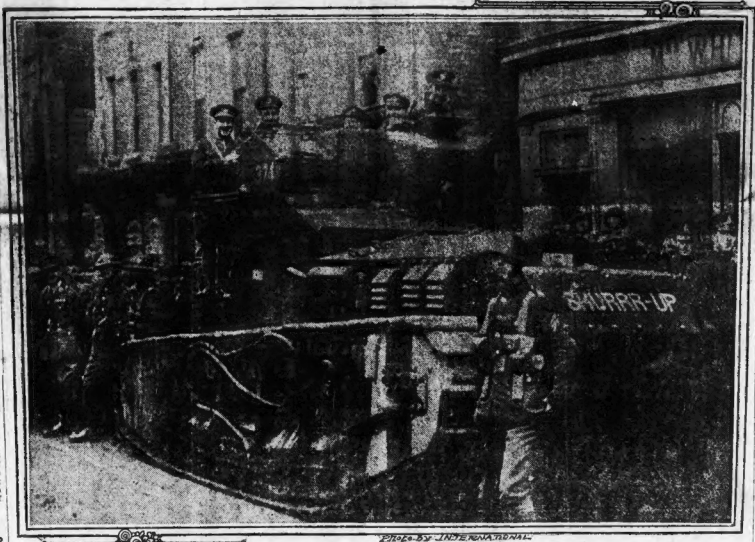

This was announced this afternoon by Secretary of the Treasury Houston. While the treasury still has authorization to make loans to the extent of half a billion to the allied nations, this will not be done, Secretary Houston said.

Secretary Houston also announced he would oppose vigorously any efforts to secure participation of the United States in the proposed allied loan to Germany.

Huge shipments of gold from France and England will reach the United States within a short time, according to information reaching Secretary Houston today.

Secretary Houston said he was advised large shipments of gold were being made from France and England to Canada with this country as the ultimate destination. He is of the opinion that these shipments are part of a plan to bring quick relief to the exchange rate which has been to the disadvantage of England and France.

FOREGUNS SENT TO IRELAND

British Troops Got Ready to Prevent Any Sinn Féin Uprising

Cork, Ireland, March 10.—Sergeant Fling of the Royal Constabulary was seriously wounded today when the Sinn Féin barracks were attacked.

Dublin, March 10.—Motor bands held up the Ulster Bank at Athboy today, stealing 1,000 pounds.

By International News Service.

Dublin, March 10.—Heavy movements of British troops are under way in Ireland. Many trains bearing soldiers, field guns and large calibre artillery arrived here during the past twenty-four hours.

The forces are being dispatched to different parts of the country. It was authoritatively reported that the military officials are taking precautions against a Sinn Féin uprising at Easter, the fourth anniversary of the Dublin rebellion.

Sinn Féin leaders believe that the military will make a big roundup of Sinn Féin leaders and other men who took part in the 1916 uprising. All are said to have been taken to a military camp, which has been set up in the city of Dublin. It is said that a commanding force in Irish affairs is said to be behind a movement to organize moderate Irish opinion for a settlement of the Irish problem in a way that will meet with American approval.

Sir Horace Plunkett, who is a supporter of the Dominion form of government for Ireland similar to that of Canada, favors the formation of a league that will be midway between the extremes of Ulster Unionists and Southern Sinn Féin. He believes that Irish difficulties could be solved mutually through the establishment of a constituent assembly representing all Ireland.

MAIL PILOT DROPS IN FLAMES

Three Other Airmen Are Killed in Crash at Miami, Fla.

Chicago, March 10.—Plunging down from the clouds with his plane in flames, a government mail aviator, believed to be C. W. Stone of Cleveland, was burned and crushed to death today six miles west of New Paris, Ind., according to a telephone message received here from Goshen, Ind.

Stone had been in the air service about six months. He was unmarried and was considered an expert pilot.

Miami, Fla., March 10.—Three airmen were killed when their machine fell near Miami. The victims were Pilot Charles Sims and Mechanicals Earl and Blaine Johnson.

Witnesses included Captain Michael J. Goff, several officers at the station and Patrolman Ewen Cameron, now of the Black Bay division, but of Charlestown on the occasion of the assault. Cameron was the man who got the key to the cell and witnessed the assault.

In police circles the disposition of the case is regarded as unusual and marking a new departure. The last prisoner convicted of assaulting a prisoner was dismissed from the force. The finding of men from their salaries is also somewhat new, for it has not been practiced since prior to the advent of the late Commissioner Thomas O'Meara.

The general order convicting and sentencing O'Connor was not read at the Charlestown station. O'Connor, who formerly paroled in May, was sent to the State Prison for a term of one year and a day for the assault. He is now serving along the "penitentiary route" on Front street, near the potato sheds.

Commissioner Curtis' departure from the plan of imposing sentences of imprisonment on officers convicted of infractions of the department rules is occasioning considerable speculation among the members of the force. Officers who have been adjudged guilty of failure to pull duty, leaving their posts, or other comparatively minor infractions during the past year have been sent to the State Prison for a term of one year and a day for the assault. He is now serving along the "penitentiary route" on Front street, near the potato sheds.

FRAZEE PAYS LANNIN BILL

At Liberty to Sell Red Sox, Having Squared Former Owner's Account

Harry H. Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, has settled his indebtedness to Joseph J. Lannin, former owner of the club. Through a firm of attorneys in this city, Frazee made payment to Lannin of the amount of $100,000. Frazee is now at liberty to sell the team at any time he may desire.

The original claim made by Lannin was for $100,000, plus interest and counsel fee. Just how much that would amount to is not known. It had been intimated that the total amount necessary to give Frazee a clear title was $275,000.

From Hot Springs today advice was received that Frazee had no intention of selling the team immediately. That may be, but the fact remains that the Red Sox are now owned by Frazee and he is actively in the field seeking it.

Price of Ice Cut to 50 Cents in City

Ice will be cheaper this summer. In announcing this today an officer of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association said he believed the ice trade was taking the lead to reduce the cost of living.

How far the reduction will affect other essentials, the dealers would not estimate, but they have organized to eliminate profiteering from their business. They are hopeful, they said, that they were blasing the trail to a general lower scale of living costs.

Fifty cents a hundred will be the prevailing price in Boston proper for household deliveries, the dealers say in the apartment houses section, the cost is generally 10 cents more than in the city. That condition can be changed by the city.

BY DELAY—SIMS

Charges Lack of Speed by U. S. Navy

Cost 2,500,000 Tons of Ships

By International News Service.

Washington, March 10.—Admiral Sims today charged the Navy Department with causing the loss of 2,500,000 tons of allied shipping through "failure to act promptly in the first six months" of the war, he said. "The delay before the Senate subcommittee investigating the conduct of the war by the Navy."

Admiral Sims asserted today by the Navy Department cost 2,500,000 tons in 1917 and but for this loss "We could have had 1,000,000 tons in France in March, 1918, instead of 500,000."

But for the "delays and military errors," Germany would have been defeated in 1917, Sims declared. "Only 25,000 men a month could be shipped in 1917," Sims declared. "An other 1,000,000 tons was unnecessarily lost in 1918," he added. "The doubtless the presence of these American troops in France in March would have brought victory in July," he said.

"Such a policy, therefore, cost us millions of dollars, 2,500,000 tons of shipping and prolonged the war at least four months," Sims said.

"Germany expected to win the war within two months when he arrived in England," he declared. "She had a grain supply that for only three weeks." He went on to say that the Navy Department's failure to take time into their confidence as regards the allies' situation at first.

WAR HONORS Campaign Opens NEWTON PLAZA

By International News Service.
Washington, March 10.—Feminists here today are hailing Miss Mary Winsor of Haverford, Pa., as the Susan B. Anthony of the "Smokes for Women" movement.

In defiance of the Senate rules prohibiting smoking, Miss Winsor, who is the relative of the aristocratic Winsors of Massachusetts, smoked two cigarettes yesterday in the Senate restaurant. She announced this act to Senator Moses, chairman of the committee, to demand equal smoking rights for women in the Capitol. A sigh was created when she lit her first cigarette in the Senate restaurant. Waiters rushed to her and asked her to stop. "The waiter answered that it was in the orders of 'Mistah Moses'."

"To run this place," asked Miss Winsor.

"Senator Moses, Miss Winsor," the waiter said.

"Senator Moses," said the waiter.

"Mistah Moses," said Miss Winsor. "I shall see Senator Moses about it," and calmly lit her second cigarette.

Feminists applauding her stand, demanded that she be allowed to demand a single standard of smoking rights for women.

"I'm not a Republican," she blurted, "but I think that the Republican party may be held responsible for the death of my daughter. It does not yield to Miss Winsor's protest."

BEAUTIFUL TRIMMINGS ADORN GOWNS IN BOSTON STORES

For crystal trimmings; for gold brocade; for butterfly bouffant effects; for the charm of fringe and tassels and rhinestone trimmings, all of evening frocks, the muse or matron should linger by the window, displays of the R. H. White Company, in White's windows, means something more than suit or hat or blouse. It means a new reign of parties and new furbelows to set those parties off. In the White window display, color predominates, with gold a favorite. One gown is original, in a class by itself. It is worn by a very handsome lady, of gold cloth, with a delicate black tracery running through a butterfly, haphazard fashion effect at the back, and a crown of flowers to supply the last dash of the original.

A PLUFFY CONFECTION.

Another, nearby, was for a younger miss. It was a fluffy confection in blue green chambray, with ruffled ruffles at the neck and a tulle all over the body. The accessories to the costume at White's proclaim the fact that little things do make a difference. The feather fans, for instance. There they were and there they are, green, ochre, and white, and softly suggested; there are the new evening shoes, French finished, with the ankle straps; there are the evening wraps. The one that must be mentioned, in a collection of beauties, was a miss's wrap of orchid tulle, lace trimmed. It went very well with an orchid evening gown trimmed with little tulle all over its spreading skirts.

National blue, a new color, had its self represented in the windows. It was a blue tulle suit with wrap, nor the brown tulle suit with metallic trimmings; nor the navy tricot suit with the American Beauty tricotette vest.

At Hovey's the Boston woman out shopping, will find several delectable, new to Hovey's this Spring which will please her. Perhaps the one worth first mention is the new miss's department for the college girl. These who constructed this at Hovey's included everything that the college girl or her mother can think of to fit the young lady out completely. From tailored sport suits of jersey; from demure and classic blue serge and tricotette, with embroidery of gilt and worsted; from black tulle frocks, tulle fringe and tassels trimmed, to little, fairy evening gowns, of amber and jade and radium blue; of harnet tulle, and the R. H. White Company will find all things dear to the heart of a girl. The department is a place where the young student, away from home for the first time, and buying her own clothes, cannot go wrong for nothing has been included in this college girl shop, of taste and a misty atmosphere, a wee bit academic, when it comes to day clothes, makes the shop distinctive.

"TRANSLATED" FASHIONS.

Hovey's is the more, the Spring, of so-called "translated" fashions. Here, in millinery and gown and suit those you find the foreign styles, far less than the price of imported models, with slight changes that make them of particular appeal to American women. "Translated department" is what one Boston woman called this new arrangement. "Suggesting analogous merchandise," is what one store official called the new arrangement of the floors. For, as an example, on the first floor, the toilet articles are out side by side counters where small wares are found. The underwear is put near shirts and such; the things that a person would be likely to buy at the same time and new knapsack each other at Hovey's, thus saving the shopper time and waiting.

One word about the little things, as seen at Hovey's this Spring. The hand-made waists, every stitch done by deft fingers, are another suggestion for any woman to own. Then the cable fringe on a home blouse is a departure.

A silk decoy wrap and a wrap of tulle de cygne, show new materials waiting to linger over, as well as the Georgette wrap, with navy willow lining elaborately embroidered in a design of delicate. But the woman, out to buy for her own, what shall we say, of beautiful and tastefully, should go and see for herself.

WOOD SWEEPS N. H. PRIMARY

General Carvill All But One City; Govs. Bartlett Run Fourth in Contest

Manchester, N. H., March 10.—The Granite State, homeland of General Leonard Wood, had today the first of its new presidential aspirations by electing in the primary a Republican delegation to the Chicago convention pledged to support him as long as he stays in the race.

The staunch support of Wood's candidacy resulted in the sweeping defeat of the unemployed candidate in every city but one—Dover. It is estimated they were beaten by a vote averaging two to one.

The Democrats elected a majority of unemployed delegates, while candidates in the First Congressional District and two in the Second District, pledged to Hoover, were successful. The unemployed delegates, however, are reported as favoring Hoover.

WINS OVER BARTLETT.—One of the surprising features of the primary was the victory of Fred W. Batastuck of Nashua over Governor Bartlett.

"I FELT LIKE A LIMP RAG"

"I don't know how I got in such a run-down condition, but only a short time ago I felt as though I didn't have strength enough to lift a paper napkin."

"I was as weak as though I didn't have a bone or muscle in my body—in fact, I felt like a limp rag all the time, and it was all I could do to get out of bed," said Mrs. H. D. Witt, 1757 East 7th St., Brooklyn, New York.

"Then," she went on, "I heard of CRO-PERINUM, the one hundred per cent perfect tonic and system builder, and got a bottle. I took the little capsules every day and the first thing I knew I was feeling better. I was young again and feeling like a new young man."

"The CRO-PERINUM," she said, "is the blood, nerve and tissue tonic, the blood, nerve and tissue tonic, the blood, nerve and tissue tonic. It helps you get the benefit of the food you eat, will not upset the stomach and, being in capsule form, is pleasant to take. It increases endurance and disease-resisting power. Particularly valuable for constipation, colic, grippe, influenza, tuberculosis, indigestion, nervous exhaustion, if you are 'run down,' start with CRO-PERINUM now. Every drug store has it. ermer Bartlett. The latter made a determined effort to kill Batastuck, but the Nashua man not only made his re-election as national chairman a certainty, but took several rounds, leading the ticket and forcing Bartlett to accept fourth place in Nashua. Bartlett was severely punished for his attitude toward Batastuck, receiving 350 votes behind the latter.

Practically every town was carried by the Wood men, according to the returns. The Nashua man not only made his re-election as national chairman a certainty, but took several rounds, leading the ticket and forcing Bartlett to accept fourth place in Nashua. Bartlett was severely punished for his attitude toward Batastuck, receiving 350 votes behind the latter.

CONCORD KNIFES BARTLETT.—Governor Bartlett was knifed in Concord, the capital city, whose citizens have been deeply offended by the Governor's attitude. The Concord newspaper of Senator George H. Moore had publicly advised Republicans not to vote for Bartlett. Bartlett won fourth place on the ticket in Concord.

On the Democratic ticket the group of four candidates for delegates-at-large headed by Robert C. Murphy of Concord is running ahead of a ticket headed by Albert W. Noble of Peterboro.

Selectmen's Stand on Dean Case Indorsed

East Jaffrey, N. H., March 10.—Going to the polls with the Dean murder case as the sole issue, the selectmen of this town were re-elected by the heaviest vote in years. In spite of adverse weather conditions.

Peter E. Hogan, the new chairman of the board and William P. Coolidge were unanimously elected and only five ballots were cast against Mr. Hogan. The opposition to Mr. Hogan was so insignificant that it made his victory all the more pronounced. Mr. Hogan's unanimous selection two successive years marks a local precedent.

The "red" party squad, who have been doing their utmost to stir further inquiry into the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean, suffered a most humiliating defeat. Although many voters were compelled to brave huge snowdrifts and to travel great distances, there were few absences.

The Dean case and the eagerness of the public to have that tragedy cleared up and avenged, resulted in a landslide.

The opposition ticket made a pathetic showing. Charles A. Stratton received four votes for selectman. F. H. Baldwin received one, and Homer H. Baldwin, who had been mentioned as the third member of the "red" ticket, did not figure at all in the returns.

HOOPER READY TO HEAR 'CALL'

Indicates Willingness to Serve, But Refuses to Join in Delegate Scramble

New York, March 10.—Herbert Hoover's most outright declaration of his "willingness" to be nominated for the presidency by either or both parties was made public here.

It was in the form of a letter from him to Ralph Arnold, representative of the "Make Hoover President Club" of California.

Mr. Hoover reiterated his former statement that he is "an independent progressive in the issue before us today." He insisted that these issues transcend partisanship, and said he objected as much to the reactionary group of the Republican party as he does to the radical wing of the Democratic party. He wrote:

"I am not seeking public office, and consulting my own personal inclinations. I do not want public office. I cannot prevent any citizen or group of citizens from agitating me. I should take public office, but I cannot conscientiously participate in any organization to that end."

initiative and volition and that they resent the manufacture of officials by machine methods. I feel sure that if I entered the race for the nomination to-day, I should be a negative of the proper American instinct, because of the situation that it implies."

"I thoroughly believe that if the other citizen, should always be ready for service when called upon, he would remain a common citizen. 'Ready to serve' is team-play with any organization and leadership that has for its objective the consumption and maintenance of great issues in the form of that I believe are to be the public interest and benefit."

Paul Goldberg Working at Hotel Where Owner of Loot Is Cuest

Serving the man he had robbed, without knowing his identity, was the experience of Paul Goldberg, arrested in Florida by Inspectors O'Neil and Claffin of the Boston police and brought back here for trial.

The Superior Court, Goldberg was sentenced to two and a half years in jail. He was charged with larceny in two counts; one, the theft of jewelry, fur and other property from the home of Frederick A. Corbett of No. 1215 Commonwealth avenue during the police strike.

When Goldberg was arrested, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett were guests at the same hotel where he was employed in Florida. They were astonished to learn that the arrested man was the one who had taken $412 worth of property from their Boston home.

The other victim was Frederick C. Jacobs, from whose home at No. 7 Fendham court, Jamaica Plain, Goldberg was charged with robbing.

The arrest of Goldberg is believed by the Boston police to be a series of breaks in Jamaica Plain and Brighton.

Hyman Shulman, a South End tailor, arrested last fall and awaiting trial, is charged with receiving stolen property, believed to be involved in these thefts.

Inspectors Finn and Flaherty were assigned to Goldberg's case, but they were absent in New Orleans at the time Inspectors O'Neil and Claffin were sent to arrest him.

To Discuss Architecture

School architects will be discussed by Frank Irving Cooper, chairman of the committee on this subject for the National Education Association, at five lectures at Boston University. The course, given under the auspices of the B. U. School of Education, begins April 2.

THIEF SERVES HIS VICTIM

Paul Goldberg Working at Hotel Where Owner of Loot Is Cuest

Serving the man he had robbed, without knowing his identity, was the experience of Paul Goldberg, arrested in Florida by Inspectors O'Neil and Claffin of the Boston police and brought back here for trial.

The Superior Court, Goldberg was sentenced to two and a half years in jail. He was charged with larceny in two counts; one, the theft of jewelry, fur and other property from the home of Frederick A. Corbett of No. 1215 Commonwealth avenue during the police strike.

When Goldberg was arrested, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett were guests at the same hotel where he was employed in Florida. They were astonished to learn that the arrested man was the one who had taken $412 worth of property from their Boston home.

The other victim was Frederick C. Jacobs, from whose home at No. 7 Fendham court, Jamaica Plain, Goldberg was charged with robbing.

The arrest of Goldberg is believed by the Boston police to be a series of breaks in Jamaica Plain and Brighton.

Hyman Shulman, a South End tailor, arrested last fall and awaiting trial, is charged with receiving stolen property, believed to be involved in these thefts.

Inspectors Finn and Flaherty were assigned to Goldberg's case, but they were absent in New Orleans at the time Inspectors O'Neil and Claffin were sent to arrest him.

BLIND, INJURED SEEKING AID

Two North Attleboro Women Unconscious Five Hours Before Help Arrives

North Attleboro, March 10.—For more than five hours Mrs. Edwin D. Richards and her blind companion, Mrs. Isabel Ballou, lay unconscious at the Richards home, No. 74 High street. They were found by Miss Susan Tilly, who also lives in the Richards house.

Mrs. Richards fell from a chair, the sales attracted Mrs. Ballou. Unable to get a response from Mrs. Richards, the blind woman tried to get assistance, and opened the wrong door, plunging headlong into the street. When Miss Tilly arrived, the woman had regained consciousness.

Medical aid was summoned, but Mrs. Ballou's injuries are of such a serious nature that she will not recover.

First, a word about price—

Of course retail prices on Spring clothes have gone up, along with the rising costs of materials and making. Naturally we've done our utmost to keep these increases as small as possible, as well as, through better materials and finer tailoring, to give you more style and longer wear for the money, even if you do pay more.

A sound basis for liberality—

We might mean to be liberal with our customers. But if our clothes were poor, we'd either have to "renew" or go out of business.

But by making sure in advance that everything is right, we are able to stand squarely back of our clothes, guaranteeing their value and satisfaction.

Men who want the "different"

Also the man who doesn't conform to any standard size. For both types of men, there's the Filene Custom Tailoring Shop, with the skill of the exclusive tailor, but with prices that keep within hailing distance of Filene values.

SteinBlock—the standard

If a man were familiar enough with fine clothes making to be able to specify the one best way woollens should be selected—and tested—and shrunk—and styled—and cut—and tailored—he'd find SteinBlock already doing it. If the label on the garment is SteinBlock, that's all any man needs to know.

Filene men's specialties

NOSKE FORBIDS 'UEBER ALLES'

Long Is Banned in Berlin Hotels After Attack on French Officers

By KARL H. VO WIEGAND.
Berlin American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, March 10.—"Deutschland über Alles" has entailed a disastrous defeat, though by numerical superiority the Germans won a victory over four members of the French mission in the "Battle of the Adlon," as the riot in the big hotel's dining room Saturday night is popularly referred to by the press here.

Minister of Defence Noske today forbade the playing of this air in the Adlon or in any other public dining rooms in Berlin. It was the refusal of the Frenchmen to stand up when the air was played that led to the fracas in the Adlon.

FRANCE ATTACKS PRINCE.
Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia, the ex-Kaiser's cousin, is still under arrest. The warrant for the arrest of his chief aide in the row, Captain von Platen, has not yet been served because the captain cannot be found.

Prince Joachim has made a statement to the press that he had no part in the "battle," but this did not deter forwarders from printing a violent attack on "reactionary insolence," under the heading, "Drunken Prince Thrushes Respectable People." An official investigation into the fracas is under way.

The French officers involved in the affair indignantly deny that there was any intention on their part to show discourtesy, declaring that "Deutschland über Alles" is not officially the national air of Germany, and that therefore they saw no reason for standing up when it was played.

(Note: Hitherto the official German national air has always been "Heil dir im Siegerkranz," the tune of which is the same as that of "God Save the King" and "My Country." This of them.)

NATIONALISTS DEFEND ACT.
The Democratic and Socialist newspapers vigorously denounce the attack on the Frenchmen and seize upon it to stir up the rising of the nationalist sentiment in Germany.

In nationalist circles the incident is regretted as coming at a moment when Field-Marshal von Hindenburg's candidacy for the National Presidency is announced. The nationalists declare the arrest of Prince Joachim an illegal act. They lay emphasis on the question of what would happen to Germans if they remained seated in Paris when the "Marseillaise" were struck up or the "Star Spangled Banner" in New York.

GREET'S MOTHER AFTER 14 YEARS

Newport War Hero of 1914 Finds Parent by News Item in American

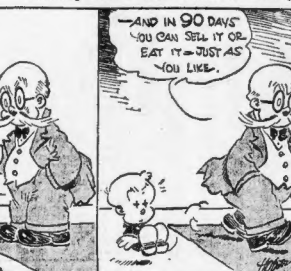

Newport, R. I., March 10.—Edward W. Reed, a nineteen-year-old veteran of the World War, rejoined his mother today after a separation of fourteen years. The meeting was brought about through a small news item, printed in the American, at the request of his mother, Mrs. Nellie Reed, in the hope that it would catch her eye and lead her to him.

Paul Orphanage at Providence. Reed found this part of the country soon afterwards and when he returned he found that her son had been taken from the home and all traces had been lost of him. The remainder of the story is told by the son. It appears that when he was about twelve years of age, he was taken from the orphanage by a farmer in Bloom, R. I. For his board he worked about the farm but after three years he tired of the drudgery of this life, and wishing to see something of the world, ran away and became a wanderer. He traveled from one part of the United States to another. He crossed the continent several times living in one place just long enough to make enough money to get him to the next. He had mechanical ability and most of his jobs were about machine shops. In this way he picked up a good knowledge of the machinery trade. He was in the West when the United States entered the war and he lost no time in enlisting. He eventually reached France and served with distinction in the 143d Infantry.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

- (1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
- (2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
- (3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.

- (4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
- (5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Revolution in the Supreme Court

A bare majority of those judges sitting on the case, but a MINORITY of the full court, have decided against the Government in its suit to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation as a trust existing in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

The American believes that combinations should be permitted BY LAW and controlled by Government, and so the fact that these four judges have decided the case in favor of the Steel Company is not so important as THE GROUND UPON WHICH THE DECISION IS BASED and the language of the decision.

The reasoning in this decision makes it one of the most extraordinary and unjudicial and REVOLUTIONARY decisions ever rendered by an American or any other court.

The reasoning of the opinion is simply an elaboration of the decision that the court will not declare the Steel Company to have violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Law BECAUSE IN THE JUDGMENT OF THESE FOUR JUDGES IT WOULD BE CONTRARY TO THE PUBLIC INTEREST TO DIS- SOLVE THE STEEL COMPANY.

That is what makes it extraordinary, unjudicial and REVOLUTIONARY.

Any ordinary lawyer who reads the decision will appreciate its character without discussion. It is so clearly unjudicial and revolutionary that we assume that these four judges meant it to have just that character.

To us it seems clear that these judges intended to take advantage of what upon the surface of things seems to be the reactionary spirit of today—a changed spirit which started with President Wilson's great apostasy to liberal America, the backbone of his support, and without which he would have been as helpless in America as he proved to be in Paris.

It is an attempt BY JUDICIAL DECISION to settle a great economic controversy which has been waged in this country and in Europe for more than a generation.

It is as unjudicial and revolutionary as the purpose of the Dred Scott decision by the same court which intended to settle the great question of slavery by a judicial decision by seven judges, with two judges of equal ability and character disagreeing with the pro-slavery majority.

The question of slavery was a POLITICAL question, not a legal question. It was convulsing the whole nation, and it had summoned into the conflict the brains and the character of the nation.

Yet a majority of pro-slavery lawyers on the Supreme Court, sworn merely to interpret the law and not to attempt to make it or amend it, actually tried to settle the irrepressible conflict by judicial decision.

To the ordinary citizen this Steel Companies decision may not seem at first blush as extraordinary and revolutionary as it will to the lawyer. But if the citizen gives it a moment's thought he will appreciate the dangerous character of the decision to our institutions.

If any citizen who is in doubt whether or not we are correct in making this serious criticism will recall a few fundamental conceptions of American principles of government he will see what the decision means and why it is REVOLUTIONARY.

First, and most fundamental, and most characteristically American, is the American principle of the separation of powers. We carry this doctrine so much further than any other nation that we have been properly called its originator.

We divide the powers of our National Government into three distinct and separate parts, to which we distinctly and clearly assign certain separate and exclusive functions.

The representatives of the people in Congress assembled can make laws only in accordance with the Constitution of the United States. But as long as Congress stays within the express provisions of the Constitution, it may make WHATEVER LAWS IT PLEASES.

The President can veto a law, but that means only that Congress must think twice, because Congress can by a two-thirds vote immediately pass any law over a President's veto.

The Supreme Court can interpret a law only in accordance with the express provisions of the Constitution and the intent of the Congress.

The Constitution is the supreme law of the land. Congress sometimes passes a law at variance with that supreme law.

Whereupon the Supreme Court can and does declare such a law unconstitutional; and Congress must revoke the law in accordance with the Constitution.

Congress sometimes passes a law which is not clear in its provisions, where the intention of Congress is not plain, where there is a possible misunderstanding of what the law actually means.

Whereupon the Supreme Court can and does interpret such a law and gives its opinion as to what Congress actually meant; and its opinion is final unless Congress repasses the law stating, in more clear and more definite language, exactly what it does mean.

In all cases, therefore, the representatives of the people, in Congress assembled, have the unquestionable right to determine what the laws of the country shall be, and the only opportunity for the Supreme Court to interfere is through lack of clearness of expression in the laws or lack of compliance with the Constitution.

Now, there is no lack of clearness of expression in the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. The meaning of the law is plain. The intent of Congress is unquestionable and is not questioned in this Steel Trust decision.

Furthermore, there is no lack of compliance with the Constitution. The constitutionality of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law is unquestionable and is not questioned in this decision.

The Supreme Court does not attempt to say that the Sherman law violates the Constitution or fails to express the intent of Congress, the only grounds on which the court could fail to enforce it.

The Supreme Court arrogates to itself a new power—the right to decide whether or not a law constitutionally passed by Congress is the kind of a law the people ought to have.

This arrogated power is a grave infraction of the Constitution, which definitely limits the powers of the Supreme Court, and it is a violent invasion of the rights of the representatives of the people in Congress to make the laws and to determine what laws the people want and need.

Such an infraction of the Constitution and invasion of the rights of a co-ordinate branch of Government is definitely and distinctly REVOLUTIONARY.

To repudiate the Constitution is REVOLUTION, whether that assault upon the Constitution and Government comes from above or below.

Revolution in the direction of reaction is no less dangerous to liberty and no less REVOLUTION than revolution in the direction of radicalism.

Moreover, there has been only TALK of revolution in the direction of radicalism, while here is the very ACT of revolution in the direction of reaction, limiting the liberties of the nation and invading the rights of the people and their representatives in Congress.

We must remember, too, that of all revolution of reaction, that of the Supreme Court is the most dangerous and the most difficult to correct, because the Supreme Court is an APPOINTIVE body and not an ELECTIVE body, and is therefore not responsible to the people nor under the direct discipline of public disapproval.

The personnel of the Supreme Court is largely in the hands of the President, and therefore when both the President and the Supreme Court develop startling revolutionary tendencies to defy the Constitution, invade the rights of Congress, and impose their individual will and opinions upon the people of the United States, without regard to the restrictions voluntarily imposed by the supreme law of the land, we have AN ACTUAL STATE OF REVOLUTION AT HAND AND ACCOMPLISHED.

It would behoove the people of this free America if they wish to preserve their freedom to concern themselves actively and aggressively with the state of revolution which actually exists, and to give less heed to the discussion of the possibilities of radical revolution which is nowhere in evidence and certainly not in operation.

In order to stop reactionary-revolution, restore the liberties of the people, re-establish respect for the Constitution, and revive the proper powers and limitations of power of the various co-ordinate branches of government, it is necessary for the people to unite and assert themselves at the polls, regardless of party, and to put into operation the necessary laws and Constitutional amendments which will make the President and the courts directly responsible to the people themselves, and which will deprive the President and the courts of some of the powers which they now abuse, to the menace of free government.

The main measures necessary for accomplishing this task are carried daily at the head of the American editorial page. They are:

- (1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
- (2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
- (3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
- (4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
- (5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

If neither one of the old parties will undertake this task, a new party should be formed to accomplish it, as it is the most patriotic and most essential task that can be performed for the liberty and safety of the American people.

YOU KNOW how it is
IN LITTLE towns.
HOW A girl goes away.
OR A BOY goes away.
TO WORK in the city.
AND AFTER a while.
THEY COME home again.
AND STICK around.
FOR A week or two.
AND THINGS are dull.
AND THERE'S nothing to do.
AND NO place to go.
AND THEN they pack up.
WHATEVER THEY HAVE.
AND BEAT IT BACK.
TO THE city streets.
AND ANYWAY.
OUT HERE on the ranch.
THERE WAS a horse.
THAT WOULDN'T GO.
AND FOUR days ago.
WE DROVE IT TO town.
TO A lively man.
TO A lively man.
WAS WILLING to trade.
A HORSE he had.
FOR THE horse we had.
AND THE horse he had.
HAD LIVED its life.
IN THE lively place.
AND ITS only home.
WAS A darkened stall.
AND IT never knew.
WHEN IT must go out.
ON HEAVY roads.
THROUGH WIND and rain.
AND I'LL say for it.
THAT IT looked the part.
THAT IT had played.

I THANK YOU.

Today

Our Standard Oil subsidiary, capitalized for five millions, has piled up a cash surplus of $50,000,000. Those figures are from the front page of yesterday's New York Times which, to organized capital, is all that Oliver Le Dain was to Louis the Eleventh.

Why did the little five-million-dollar company pile up its bank account? Answer: Because if the $50,000,000 had been handed out in dividends to the stockholders at least thirty millions would have gone to the government in income tax.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court, one of the most dangerous and reactionary ever handed down, enables the five million dollar company to pay out its fifty millions surplus in stock dividends and the stockholders will pay not a dollar of income tax. Small business men and others must carry the extra load.

This Supreme Court decision robs the nation of hundreds of millions a year, and adds that load to the backs of little men.

It is a dangerous decision. The fact that judges rendering it are unquestionably honorable men makes it more dangerous, for there may be more decisions like it.

Dean Swift, abused by a fishwife, called her "a parallelogram and isosceles triangle."

Starred, the lady lost her abusive vocabulary.

Most surprised person, since the day of that fishwife, is probably Mr. Anderson of the Anti-Saloon League, as a "brawler" of blipity.

For the religious man it is disgusting to read this five hundred-

Little Acorns, Great Oaks
A $50,000,000 Surplus
The Archbishop's Word
One War Cause

Methodist preachers applauded Mr. Anderson when he reported his attack upon the Catholic church. Attacks upon an established church respected by millions of followers is dangerous for all other churches. In these Bohemian days clergymen should stand together.

To those that never worry about religious quarrels, knowing that Providence will protect its own, the Anti-Saloon League attack on the Catholic church is important apart from religious attacks.

Hitherto, when legislators heard the Anti-Saloon League's voice, they understood that it was the voice of all churches. As a rule, they obeyed.

Now the voice of the Anti-Saloon League will be that of an organization whose chief fighter scowls the Catholic church in seeking to defy the Constitution and encourage disobedience to law. That may make a difference to the legislator.

War will end when people outgrow it. They'll outgrow it when education causes emulation to take the place of competition.

Poch, who knows something about to stand when the hand plays "Germany Over All."

At this moment a sense of humor would save anybody but a prince from making that mistake. "Germany Over All" should have had first to recover from the Hohenzollern wind-up.

The prince is arrested, and England wisely endeavors to take the case out of the hands of the French. Right there, the worthless prince, probably had drunk, and the French officer, perhaps nastily offensive, you have a possibility of war involving millions.
